

Member Orientation: How to Use the Hub

The Brand Blueprint is your founder-facing ecosystem, Value Growth Partners is the advisory and execution engine behind it, and Growth OS turns plans into operating infrastructure. This orientation shows you how the member library is organized and how to find the one resource that fits what you are working on right now.

What this membership is

The Founder Network is a working library, not a course. Nothing here is sequenced for you to complete end to end. Each resource is built to be picked up at a specific moment in a specific decision, used, and put down again.

How the library is organized

Resources are grouped into nine collections. Each collection has a README that states who it is for, where it fits in the founder journey, and a recommended path through its contents. Read the README first — it will usually save you opening three files you did not need.

Collection	Use it when
Start Here + Founder Operating Cadence	You are new, or your week has lost its shape.
Funding + Capital Access	Funding is your active priority.
Retail, Buyers + Distribution	You are preparing for or managing retail accounts.
Product, Packaging + Operations	You are building or fixing how the product gets made and moved.
Growth OS + Founder Systems	The work depends on you personally and needs to stop doing so.
Marketing, Content + Customer Growth	You need demand, positioning, or a clearer message.
Events, Market Signals + Opportunities	You are looking for timely openings and market context.
Partner Network + Expert Routing	You need a vetted operator, not another document.
Accelerator + Alumni Continuity	You are in a cohort, or you have finished one.

How resource codes work

Every resource carries a code — SH-02, CAP-09, RET-10, BRD-04. Codes are stable. Documents cross-reference each other by code, so when a worksheet tells you to bring your numbers from CAP-04, that is a precise pointer to one file, not a category. Codes do not change when a file is revised; the version suffix does.

Three ways in

- By pressure. Something is urgent — cash, a buyer meeting, a launch date. Go straight to the collection that names it and use the README's recommended path.
- By stage. You want to know what you should be strengthening next. Each README carries a Founder journey fit line — read those to place yourself.
- By rhythm. Nothing is on fire and you want to build the habit that prevents the next fire. Start with SH-02, the Founder Operating Cadence.

What membership includes

- Access to all nine collections and every resource in them, including revisions.
- New and updated resources as they are published, announced in the hub.
- Templates and worksheets you fill in privately — your copies are yours.
- Routing to vetted partners and experts through the Partner Network collection.

A note on how to actually use it

The most common failure is downloading nine files in week one and opening none of them in week six. Take one resource, finish it, and let the next be pulled by an actual decision. SH-03 gives you a first-30-days path if you would rather be told where to start.
