

Accelerator Overview & Curriculum Map

The Brand Blueprint is your founder-facing ecosystem, Value Growth Partners is the advisory and execution engine behind it, and Growth OS turns plans into operating infrastructure. This overview describes how a Founder Network accelerator cohort is structured, what each module is meant to produce, and what is expected of participants.

How a cohort runs

- Cohorts are working sessions, not lectures. Each session produces an artifact you keep.
- Pre-work is required. Sessions assume it is done and start from your actual numbers.
- Peer review is built in — founders read each other's work and respond.
- Progress is assessed against the published rubric (ACC-03), shared at the start.

Curriculum map

Module	Focus	Produces	Library support
01 · Position	Who you serve, what you refuse, why you exist	A written positioning statement and a not-for-market decision	Marketing, Content + Customer Growth
02 · Demand	The path from stranger to customer	One documented acquisition path with named buyers	Marketing, Content + Customer Growth
03 · Channel	Retail, wholesale, direct, or a mix	A channel decision with the economics written	Retail, Buyers + Distribution
04 · Operations	How the product is made and moved	A process map with owners and exceptions	Production, Packaging + Operations
05 · Money	Margin, cash cycle, and funding fit	A rolling forecast and a capital-path decision	Funding + Capital Access
06 · Systems	What stops depending on the founder	One layer moved off the founder, documented	Growth OS + Founder Systems
07 · Readiness	Assessment against the rubric	A scored rubric and a named next commitment	Accelerator + Alumni Continuity

What is expected of participants

- Attend the working sessions; send someone with authority if you genuinely cannot.
- Complete pre-work before the session, not during it.
- Bring real figures. Sessions built on placeholder numbers produce placeholder decisions.
- Respect the confidentiality of what other founders share in the room.

What this is not

Participation does not guarantee funding, buyer placement, partnership, or any commercial result. The accelerator is a structured working environment; what it produces depends on the work you put through it.
